Advice Is Easy

SENATOR BORAH revives the suggestion that Uncle Sam give to starving millions in China the 250,000,000 bushels of wheat that the government has wheat, and can't sell.
Borah adds a business idea. China buys little white rice from us because Chinese eat rice. Not having rice now, they probably would eat wheat if we gave it to them, thus developing a taste for it, and building up a future market for us.
Apart from drumming up trade, why not give the wheat to the starving, for the good of our souls, nationally speaking. Seeing us give away 250,000,000 bushels of wheat, enough to make ten billion loaves of bread, Providence might reward us by ending our depression.
In any case, it would be one way to discredit Nietzsche's well-known epigram: "There has been but one Christian, and He died on the cross."

Professor Compton, winner of the Nobel prize in physics, shows the atoms in an electron, separated from each other by one-billionth of an inch, and in proportion to their size, as far apart as the earth and the sun. Until lately, it was thought that nothing smaller than the atom could exist. Now we know that it is a little solar system, with a proton, or nucleus in the center, like our sun, and electrons revolving around it, like planets.
In the order of bigness, matter is arranged by Professor Compton as follows: "Electron, atom, bacterium, goat, man, mountain, earth, sun, solar system, galaxy cluster, galaxy and known universe."
That known universe is so big that it would take light, going 186,000 miles a second, about 600,000,000 years to come from one side to the other. Figure out that distance.
And, for all we know, "known universe" may be merely one little group of cosmic dust in an infinitely bigger universe. Think of a billionth of an inch, and thousands of suns a million million times as big as our sun.

Uncle Sam is building two airplanes that will help us to realize the possibilities of machine troops in future wars. Each of the planes, called "hedge-hogs," will carry five machine guns, to "spray" marching soldiers with bullets, while flying 50 feet above ground.
In addition to machine guns, each plane will carry 500 pounds of bombs.
Training the sensations of machine troops, crawling at snail's pace, with planes, flying 50 feet above ground, dropping bombs and shooting them down.

Advice is easy. The farm board says to farmers: "Plant less wheat, there is too much of it" and to cotton growers: "Plant less cotton, there is too much of it."
The farmer will ask: "What shall I plant?" Shall I plant potatoes? Shall I plant corn? Shall I plant soy beans? Shall I plant warm water with reduced eggs to 22 cents a dozen, no low that some farmers have fed eggs to their pigs?
Those who advise farmers should remember that their need is to grow a crop that will pay the cost of freight. Shall I plant soy beans and feed them to the pigs? That would be a better market. What can he grow in place of grain that he can't sell? There would seem to be too many of them.

Great Britain has been a "fever of excitement." Not because Lloyd George's Liberal party is combining with Labor, and from worry about unemployment, but bad conditions in British industry.
The fever was all about three horse races, the Lincolnshire, the Grand National and the Lincolnshire was won yesterday by Knight Error. The Lincolnshire was run today and the Grand National on Friday.
After that, unemployment and minor worries will resume their importance.

Mrs. Little Schaefer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., at 21, was through with life, although she had two pretty little girls. Her husband was out of her life, and she was unable to find a job, and decided that life had lasted too long.
She put the little girls carefully in one room, and then went into another to kill herself by gas. After the gas had been turned on a wall to occur to her that it might upset under the gas and burst her. She turned it off, waited several hours, then let a note in a milk bottle on the front doorstep, turned on the gas and lay down.
The milkman found the note, a policeman broke the door. The children were sleeping peacefully, the mother not quite dead, was revived and sent to a hospital to continue looking for a job.
After making an agreement with Gaudin, the British press continued on Page 4, Column 3.

Scoops! Inside Story of a Great News Beat

In the past two weeks the Boston Evening American has established a record for news scoops on big news stories almost unparalleled in American journalism.
Tuesday a shocked New England read a complete story of the murder of Verna Russell, Fall River nurse, complete—and with pictures—in the Boston Evening American.
If there is romance in murder it was brought out that day . . . and since . . . in the news-gathering force of this newspaper, from the finding of the body to today's surrender of Elliott R. Hathaway, charged with the murder, which was exclusively announced in the Boston Evening American in its first edition.
Every element of tragedy and romance entered into the unfortunate end of a beautiful girl who had her life's ambition borne for with graduation next June from Truett School Hospital her first step.
Barely half an hour after the first flash of the murder was recorded in the Boston Evening American in its first edition. The Angle L. Marshall is a 100-ton auxiliary sealer, one of a fleet of five owned by Mr. Marshall. The Grand Marshall, a sister ship, is in drydock at Halifax after a similar mishap in the ice field two weeks ago.

The two ships have been halting fishing off Newfoundland for three weeks.

EXCLUSIVE Hathaway Thought of Suicide

By BERT FORD
Providence, March 26—Elliott Hathaway was on the verge of suicide before his surrender, Attorney-General Benjamin M. McLyman revealed today.
He also said there was a "very good chance that Hathaway will make a clean breast of everything."
In disclosing to the Boston Evening American all the details attending the surrender of the Fall River youth to answer a charge of murdering his blonde girl-friend, Verna Russell, Fall River nurse, the attorney-general told the following story:
"We drove to North Attleboro and to the Hotel Hixon. We inquired if there was a man named Jacobs registered there and were informed that there was, that he was in room 402. We went there at once.
"Mr. Jacobs let me in. He introduced me to a young man named Hathaway, with a black mustache. Recalling pictures of Elliott Hathaway, I wondered if this was he.
"HATHAWAY'S BROTHER
"I was outside the jurisdiction of my state and had to be cautious. I thought I would feel him out and said: 'Are you Dr. Hathaway?' Where are you located now?
"He said he was Dr. Hathaway and that he was located in Springfield.
"I was at home at 4:30 this morning when I received a telephone call from a man who said he was Atty. Jacobs.
"You have a warrant for Elliott Hathaway, I said.

Elliott R. Hathaway, 28, sought since Tuesday for the murder of Verna Russell, 20, pretty Fall River nurse, surrendered at 9:30 a. m. today to Atty.-Gen. Benjamin M. McLyman of Rhode Island, in the Hotel Hixon, North Attleboro.

Whether he denied or confessed the crime, Atty.-Gen. McLyman would not say.

"It would be broad to say he denied it. From all the evidence I have at hand, I believe he strangled the girl in an attempt to criminally assault her," he added.

Hathaway, Fall River playboy, son of wealth and son of Rep. Louis Hathaway, had shaved off his mustache and discarded the fur coat in which he disappeared following the slaying in Tiverton, R. I.

He denied the story attributed him by Verna Russell, Fall River youth under bonds as a material witness—the effect that he and Miss Russell were held up in a room by Edward Ross, Tiverton, by means.

"The hold-up story is not and I have also discarded the Rhode Island attorney-general.

HATHAWAY SURRENDERS TO R. I. ATTORNEY-GENERAL

shaved, outwardly cool, but smoking cigarette, after cigarette, was rushed from North Attleboro to Providence, thence to the State police barracks in Portsmouth, R. I., home of the slain girl, and then to Newport.

In Newport he was arraigned on murder charges, pleaded not guilty and remanded to Providence County Jail without bond there at Providence, a crowd of at least 2000 people gathered to catch a glimpse of him.

Hathaway's dramatic surrender, the height of New England's greatest man-hunt, which was announced exclusively in the first edition of the Boston Evening American today, was arranged for by his brother, Dr. Elliott R. Hathaway, Jr., a Springfield physician, and Samuel I. Jacobs, Boston attorney, who were with him when he gave up.

Jacobs had been given Hathaway's version of the crime, and in turn was given the Rhode Island authorities. Of it, Attorney-General McLean said:

"The story told by Jacobs as being Hathaway's story will not hold water."
He declined to divulge its nature. According to the defense attorney, Jacobs, Hathaway, whose abandoned automobile was found in Cambridge at West End, at midnight yesterday, had been seen in hiding at a place between Scituate and Boston.

At 4:30 a. m. Jacobs telephoned to McLean.

"I saw at the Hotel Hilton in North Attleboro, Hathaway is here with me. He will not fight extradition," he told him.

Meanwhile, Rep. Hathaway sought out Crosby and told him Elliott "is in Boston and Louis has gone to get him."

HAPPY HOURS AT BOOKS
The Portsmouth nurse, found strangled near Tiverton, R. I., was a book worm. In speaking of her love for the indoors, her father said, "I often wished that she would have spent more time outdoors."

At 8 o'clock, Crosby was called from North Attleboro by Atty. Jacobs.

Crosby, who yesterday held three conferences with Rep. Hathaway, declined that the case was within the jurisdiction of an attorney.

OFFICIALS OF TWO STATES PLAYED PROMINENT PART IN HATHAWAY HUNT

SERGT. MARCEAU OFFICER DONOVAN CAPT. McGRATH OFFICER BOHMBACK TROOPER GRAINGER
Police of two states viewed the murder warrant for arrest of Daniel Donovan and Frank Bohmbach, special officers of Boston. Marceau and Grainger, both of the Rhode Island State Police, came after the car, owned by Hathaway. Scores of clues to Hathaway were run down by the police.

Depressed by grief, David Duff, clean-cut young Newport (R. I.) carpenter, is shown gazing mournfully at photograph of Verma Russell—all that is left to him now of the beautiful young nurse he loved so tenderly, since her life was snuffed out on a lonely road by the hands of a brutal stranger. DARTMOUTH '31 VOTES WOMEN CHIEF NEED Hanover, N. H., March 26 (INS)—Whimsical fancies of the Dartmouth senior class came to light today with the publishing of the results of the 1931 class preference.

"Women" were considered the greatest need of the college, winning out over the need of an ice plant for the hockey rink by two votes.

Twenty-five of the seniors admitted that they had never been kissed.

The ideal girl, picked by a composite vote of the seniors, would be five feet six inches tall, weighing about 120 pounds. She will have blue eyes and brown hair. Girls of medium intellect were preferred.

The Dartmouth seniors appeared to have a rather materialistic philosophy of life, for 100 of them would marry for money; while less than one hundred claimed they would rather make their own bank account.

Mutches are not in vogue in Dartmouth collegiate circles, and almost 200 men admitted they had never had the courage to cultivate one.

Smokers far outnumbered those who do not care for tobacco.

A curious situation arose over the question of drinking and prohibition. Two hundred of the men admitted they drank, and 315 of them favored the repeal of the prohibition amendment.

Yale University appeared as the favorite college after Dartmouth. Smith College was considered the favorite women's college.

THEY LIKE BOSTON
The Dartmouth Outing Club, which sponsors the annual winter carnival, continued to stand as the institution doing the most for the college. Ann Harding was voted the favorite movie actress.

When the Dartmouth seniors go off on their spring vacation, they will be leaving for New York. Football preceded skiing as the favorite outdoor sport.

In the balloting about the members of the class, John W. Martin of Grand Rapids, Mich., president of the student government, was chosen as the man doing the most for the college. Martin also won out as the most respected senior.

HONORS FOR STUDENTS
Willard "Shep" Wolff of Brooklyn, football star, was considered the most popular man in the class and also as the most vigorous.

Warwick of New Rochelle, N. Y., business manager of the student paper, was picked as the most likely to succeed.

John V. Patterson of Dayton, O., was voted the best dressed, and Frederick Russell of Oklahoma City took honors at the hands of the members of the class. John M. O'Connor of Beverly Hills, was voted the most intellectual senior.

WORLD'S 'MOST DANGEROUS' MAN IN NET

Chicago, March 26 (AP)—Chief of Detectives John Norton today sent three of his men to St. Joseph, Mo., to get Fred H. Burke, notorious killer, machine gunner and bank robber, who was arrested near St. Joseph today.

The detectives took seven warrants for Burke's arrest as a murderer in the St. Valentine's Day massacre of seven Chicago gangsters. Burke has been characterized as the "most dangerous man alive."

He was in bed when police rushed into his room in a farmhouse at Milan, Mo. today with machine guns ready.

GUN NEAR AT HAND
He was seized before he could reach for his revolver, hanging on a chair near his head.

"I thought I was being taken for a ride," he said.

Although he first gave his name as Franklin White, the prisoner later, in St. Joseph, admitted his identity as Burke.

In St. Joseph, Mich., a year ago, he killed Charles Becker, traffic police man, to avoid paying a $100 fine to repair a fender on his car.

In Burke's bungalow at that time, machine guns and thousands of dollars worth of bonds stolen in Milwaukee bank were found.

One of the machine guns vomited bullets in the St. Valentine massacre, experts said.

$100,000 LOOT
The loot in bank robberies over the nation, attributed to this killer, has been placed by police at a million dollars.

In Detroit gangland the first man slain in gang wars by a machine gun was killed by Burke.

He has served prison terms in Michigan and Missouri. In 1925 he was acquitted of a $35,000 robbery of the United Railway general offices, and the presiding judge told him to Newbury.

"You have just released one of the most infamous ex-convicts in the United States."

HERE ARE HIS EYES

These are the eyes of Elliott R. Hathaway, the Fall River youth suspected of the murder of beautiful Verma Russell, nurse, whose body was found in a ditch after she was strangled and thrown from an auto in Rhode Island. These eyes, a deep blue, played no small part in the fascination this young man had for women.

NO MILLION TO PAY OFF VETS

Washington, March 26 (AP)—An additional $100,000,000, needed because of a prospective $700,000,000 deficit and loans to World War veterans, will be sought Monday by the Treasury.

Secretary Mellon said today Treasury bills for $100,000,000 "treasuries," selling at a discount, will be offered next week at Federal Reserve banks to the highest bidder. The money will be used to pay government expenses and to pay loans to veterans on their adjusted compensation certificates.

The Veterans Bureau has received 1,271,291 applications from veterans for loans. Veterans Administrator Hines estimated that if the $177 average loan value of $30,233 check already mailed in maintaining the Treasury will need $90,000,000.

Hines has asked the Treasury to supply $200,000,000 before April 11 for the loans. Until he has the request only $300,000,000 had been provided, in the belief that would be sufficient for the bureau until the end of June.

SHIPS CRASH IN DENSE FOG
New York, March 26 (AP)—The freighter Pacific Cedar collided in the darkness off Barnegat, N. J., early today with the tanker Harlan Star, which was only scraped on the side and proceeded on her way to Newbury.

Her hold filling with water, the two ships were separated immediately after the collision by heavy seas and a dense fog.

Tear Bombs Rotten Derby Strike Mob
Derby, Conn., March 26 (AP)—Tear bombs were used by police last night and today to disperse crowds of sympathizers who had clashed with guards at meetings of the Communist Party in Shelton. One man was arrested for breach of the peace.

SURRENDERED TO HIM

Atty.-Gen. Benjamin M. McLyman, who is directing the Rhode Island end of the probe into the slaying of Verma Russell, pretty nurse, is shown at his office in Providence going over evidence in the case. It was to McLyman that Hathaway surrendered today.

SHIFTS DUE IN HOOVER RESTS CABINET ON TRIP HOME
Washington, March 26 (INS)—There are persistent reports that President Hoover's Cabinet is to be reshuffled at the start of the Hoover administration. Dr. William V. Duggan, who is serving in the cabinet on a leave of absence, has already been extended.

Mr. Hoover is a trustee of the university.

According to the report, Wilbur plans to retire from his cabinet post and return to the university before the next term begins. His successor, according to reports in administration circles, is to be William V. Duggan of Denver, former treasurer of the Republican national committee and recently an unsuccessful candidate for the Senate.

BALCHEN PLANE RESUMES HUNT

Cornbrook, N. F., March 26 (AP)—Dern Balchen started in his plane today to search the ice fields for Varick Friesell and A. G. Penned, New York motion picture men among the 26 missing in the solar Viking disaster.

He and his companions, Melton Cooper and Randy Enlow, took off at 10:10 a. m. E. S. T. The weather was clear and there was a west wind blowing.

Four steamers that rushed to the rescue of Viking survivors are still in the vicinity of Horseshoe Island, held fast by the ice jam.

Newfoundland has named a commission of inquiry to investigate the explosion, which cost 28 lives. Wireless Operator Clayton King, who suffered a leg fracture in the crash, had both feet amputated yesterday.

SWEETHEART SOBS WITH PARENTS AT BIER OF SLAIN GIRL

DUFF REVEALS PLANS HE MADE FOR Verna's Happiness

By RUTH MUGGERIDGE
Newport, R. I., March 26.—A broken-hearted boy viewed the body of the Winward lane tragedy victim and cried like a baby. Gulp sobs stirred the still of death chamber, and David Duff for the last time looked upon pretty Verna Russell, her lifeless form resting in a lavender casket in the undertaking parlor here.

The 23-year-old apprentice had hoped to make the girl his wife some day—when finances assured comfort and luxuries. But that, some day had passed into oblivion as the boy gazed at his sweetheart. The girl's ambitions, the things they both planned together, he said he vividly recalled as he stood by her in death.

SHAKES PARENTS' GRIEF
Brief but poignant was the last watch, and then young Duff read the life of Verna's grief-stricken parents to bring that little solace he could give them. They, too, had viewed the body—mother, father and sweetheart bowed in sorrow beside the young woman they loved.

At his home today, David Duff sought consolation in reminiscence, thinking back over the happy hours he and Verna passed together.

"We were so happy," he said. "We went to many places together and met people and enjoyed company so much. And we talked. Always we talked of Verna's plans, of my plans, of our plans."

TALKS OF PLANS
"It was working so hard to achieve successful ends that someday we could be married and enjoy life happily and comfortably. I wanted to work hard to make her happy. Always we discussed the future."

"It is comforting, always will be, to remember her as one of the dearest, sweetest girls who ever lived. Nothing but the finest in womanhood remains in my memory of her. I was proud of her. She was bright and so pretty. She was so dear. Always laughing, always gay, always hopeful."

"Many times she told me not to worry that everything would come out all right. That if one worked hard and put one's best in any undertaking, success was inevitable."

RECALLS LAST GOOD-BYE
"That anyone could snuff out the life of a girl so dear, so charming, so attractive, is beyond all understanding. To know her was to love her."

"Never do I expect to spend such a miserable, nerve-wrecking night as I spent last Tuesday evening—when we were to meet again. To think that she had been murdered a day after we had said 'good-bye'—Oh, it is horrible."

"I tried to cheer up my mother and father. But what could I

EXCLUSIVE Hathaway Told Dad and Fleed

By JAMES J. SMITH

Covington, R. I., March 26.—That Elliott Hathaway conferred with his father in Fall River before the manhunt started for him in connection with the slaying of Verna Russell at Tiverton, was learned officially today by the Boston Evening American.

The startling disclosure was made in a statement by Atty.-Gen. Benjamin McLean, who questioned Vernon V. Galvin, chum of young Hathaway and the first he told of the tragedy of Winward lane.

Galvin's statement as given out by Atty.-Gen. McLean, follows:

"I don't want to go to his father's home. He didn't want to go at first but he finally went to the house and rang the bell. Hathaway's father came down stairs and we went in."

TOLD OF 'JAM'
"We're in a jam, dad," Hathaway said and his father said: "What's the matter?"

"Between Hathaway and me we told him what was out there and I said I thought she might be alive."

"Well, wait," Mr. Hathaway said, "and see what we can do."

"We told him again and again and he kept saying there was nothing we could do now, so Pinky and I walked out. We drove back to my home and he left me at the front door."

"As I started to go into the house he called me back to the car and said, 'Well, good-bye old boy. You've won't see me again.'"

CONFIDES IN WIFE
"I went into the house, undressed and went to bed, but I couldn't sleep, so I woke my wife and told her what I was up against."

"I figured that I should keep my mouth shut because he was a

Music Was Verna's First Choice for Life's Work

(By STAFF CORRESPONDENT)

Portsmouth, R. I., March 26.—Drops of an artistic career as a concert violinist absorbed the energies and attention of pretty Verna Russell until she became a "victim of mercy," her father, Carl E. Russell, revealed today.

The Winward lane tragedy victim was devoted to the violin and talked of seriously pursuing the profession, he said at the Russell bungalow.

NURSING WORK OUT
But then she entered the Trustada Hospital and nursing, the sacred service to the sick, took possession of the 23-year-old girl and she forgot the musical instrument.

While the murdered girl's father, who had been a violinist himself, reminded of her childhood, her ambitions and future plans, a sorrowed mother paced the living room of the green cottage at Bristol Perry, her face lined with grief and her eyes wet with tears.

The parents had just returned from a tragic visit to the undertaking parlors where the young woman lay in a lavender casket, and a friend of mine, but then I figured I owed a lot to my wife. We talked about it, but then I figured I had better tell the police."

"She said it lots of times, but I couldn't help thinking that she was a friend of mine, and I hated to see her in a casket, but my wife kept saying, 'You must go. You must!'"

"And then I thought the nurse might not be dead, so I called the hospital." (The call apparently was the mysterious call reported by hospital officials yesterday.)

"I called the hospital and asked if Miss Russell had come home yet and they asked me who I was. I said, 'It's important and I want to know if she's home yet.'"

CASE ASKS REPORT
"They said, who are you? What are you calling for? Where are you, and all that kind of questioning, and I thought I'd better hang up."

"Then I talked with my wife and we finally went to the Fall River police and told them."

The remainder of the 22-page interview with Atty.-Gen. McLean was the same as reported yesterday, in which Galvin told of Hathaway's midnight visit to his house and of the ride to where the body of the nurse lay.

The report was turned over to Col. Everett St. John Chaffee, head of the Rhode Island state police, who declined to reveal the contents of the entire statement. Gov. Norman R. Case, however, asked for the full report on the case today.

INSIDE STORY OF BIG SCOOP

called, Boston Evening American newsmen, were distributing the news to the public.

It was exactly three hours later when other afternoon papers went on sale with a story.

The story then followed in SCOOPS and NEW REASONS. Men and girl reporters were rushed to the scene by fast automobile.

Death by strangulation was reported a full day ahead of other papers.

The reporters deployed to Fall River, in Newport, Tiverton, Portsmouth, Providence and other points in Rhode Island—all necessary points for news gathering.

A STORY OF SCOOPS

The first present day picture of Miss Russell appeared in Boston from Tiverton airport in a fast airplane. At East Boston airport, a motorcycle courier acted in a dash to the Boston Evening American office and it was printed that day.

By fast automobile, another photograph of the student nurse was speeded to Boston to be printed that day. Two exclusive pictures and a full account of the murder. The first present-day picture of the man sought followed closely, while others were printing photographs taken years ago.

The name of Elliott R. Hathaway, long known as the murderer, was withheld for a time by police. Boston American reporters urged and prevailed on police for its use.

His publication brought the finding of his fast coach, parked in Cambridge St., West End. His motor boat from the flight of his sister.

HOW CAR WAS FOUND

Patrolman Elmer Cuddy found the car—through the number—published in the Boston Evening American.

Reporters were rushed to the West End and secured the address of Patrick J. McGuire of St. Charles St., through which Hathaway was eventually traced by a Fall River telephone call.

It was then learned that Alty Samuel Jacobs accepted an office under the McGuire apartment, and that Dr. Louis Hathaway telephoned him during the afternoon to arrange for his brother's surrender.

While other papers withdrew their news gatherrers from the scene, the Boston Evening American kept men on the job through last night. The first learned at 7 p. m. last night that Hathaway was communicating with Fall River in recognition to surrender. As a result this newspaper wrote a first lead in first edition today.

His attorney was followed yesterday, reporters confident that the West End address would give this newspaper first news of the Secretary

Barbara Goodwin, of East Milton, was elected secretary of senior week at Boston University's College of Liberal Arts.

surrender were rewarded in Providence—where another watch was kept—where Hathaway surrendered with Alty Samuel Jacobs of the West End.

Jealousy as the possible motive for the murder, always a dice question and a nondescript one to complete a newspaper story on murder, was a clean scoop yesterday.

It was printed officially while others sought to verify it. They finally did but it was the next day.

The startling revelation that the blue-eyed son of a State legislator visited his parent before fleeing from a murder charge was revealed exclusively in this newspaper today in the first edition. Another scoop!

PERSISTENCE WINS

Persistence in reporting and unlimited patience again won the day.

The element of romance, gathered by the feminine members of the staff, revealed a budding romance in the life of the girl before her untimely end. The story was given readers a day ahead of other newspapers.

Many other details of her life; her associates; the high school she was held by friends and fellow nurses—all gathered and presented the readers in record time.

Even today, as American presses rolled out the story of Hathaway's whereabouts while police hunted him in seven states, competing newspapers were placing together a story of the bare surrender. That was more than two hours ago.

The newsgathering was not without its tribulations. Reporters worked tirelessly and, at times, against great odds. Sleep was forgotten both in the field and by tired rewrite men whose only thrill was the punch-munch of the typewriter.

But all forgot their tiredness in the success of it all. The thrill of scoop to a newspaperman again overrode loss of sleep and again gave a feeling of something worth while—the readers were served FIRST.

The Russell slaying was one of a series of scoop.

The tragic Lynn fire of last week was printed an hour ahead of competitors.

An exclusive confession on the slaying of a Vermont husband by a wife that feared for herself and children was another.

BERLIN SPURNS GENEVA LEAGUE

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
Berlin, March 25.—Both the German and Austrian governments have rejected British "suggestions" that the Austro-German customs union be suspended pending an investigation by the League of Nations Council. It was officially announced last night.

Speaking bluntly for Germany, Chancellor Heinrich Brüning told the British ambassador that a League Council investigation of the part of its "political points" was wholly "inadmissible."

London, March 25.—Official circles at Great Britain were convinced today that the projected Austro-German customs union is merely a "cover" for a subsequent political agreement between the two nations, and therefore objectionable to the empire.

Vienna, March 25.—Developments here indicated today that the proposed Austro-German agreement may have a deeper meaning than an economic one.

It was announced that Dr. Hans Schurr, Austrian minister of justice, would leave for Berlin immediately to negotiate the adaptation of the German and Austrian penal and civil codes, and adaptation of the school systems of the two countries.

Maj. Shepard III
Denver, March 25 (AP)—Maj. Charles A. Shepard, convicted of slaying his wife and under sentence of life imprisonment, was ill at Plattsburgh Hospital today. He suffered a stomach hemorrhage yesterday. His condition was said to be serious.

YOUTH THOUGHT OF SUICIDE

Halt Hathaway, haven't you? he asked, and I said I had.

THOUGHT IT A JOKE

"He said, 'If you came to the Hotel Nison, in North Attleboro, you can have your man.'"

"I said, 'If I go, I will take a State trooper with me,' and the lawyer answered, 'That's satisfactory to us.'"

"I got in touch with Trooper Joseph Marcus. I thought the whole thing was peculiar and did not know what the racket was. I thought it might be a joke."

"A third man then came out of the bathroom where he had been shaving."

"I told Jacobs I was outside the jurisdiction of my state and asked if they would ride with me to Providence. He said they would and we called a taxi-cab."

FOLLOW WITH WARRANT

"Elliott, his brothers and Jacobs rode with me in the taxi. I sat beside Elliott. He was only technically a prisoner then. Trooper

Marcus followed us in the police car with the warrant.

"Eight miles from Attleboro we crossed the state line and I turned to Elliott and said, 'You are the prisoner of the State of Rhode Island.'"

"He was pale and appeared very nervous and seemed very anxious continually. I said nothing about the case while we were in Massachusetts, but waited until we reached my office. I felt there was a professional courtesy due Attorney Jacobs and the young man's family under the circumstances."

"When we reached my office I said to Jacobs: 'What is your plan?'"

CONSIDERED SUICIDE

"He replied: 'We wish to help you out in every way possible. I have had a conference with the family, who wish to cooperate in every way, and that is why we heard of your mention.'"

"I was very thankful to get Elliott Hathaway alive as I was given to understand at the meeting that he had contemplated suicide—I don't know by drowning or what method, although I heard of nothing mentioned."

"I did not talk with the boy in my office but with his attorney, and was given to understand there was a very good prospect he would make a clean breast of everything."

"I felt in view of the fact that Rhode Island was saved a long hunt and the danger of never getting Hathaway alive that I would meet them halfway."

"I ordered Hathaway sent to Newport for arraignment. Neither he nor his attorney told me where he had been since he fled, but I gained the impression that he spent nearly all the time in Boston."

EXPOSÉ CONFESION

"When I interview him tomorrow, I intend to have his attorney and a stenographer present. I don't believe in third degree or intimidation; that is not the Rhode Island method."

"If the young man wishes to tell me his story of what happened I will accept it, and I should imagine from the attitude of his family that we shall expect just that."

"His attorney, I understand, is to confer with his parents today."

"Hathaway did not have his fur coat and the coat he had was apparently lent him by his brother or his attorney."

"I am inclined to think that one of the first things he did after disappearing was to shave his mustache."

"In his cell in Newport tonight he will be allowed to talk with his father and mother, and Alty Jacobs, I expect, will accompany them there. I am sure that his relatives will urge him to tell the whole truth and to hold back nothing."

Young Macys' Romance at End, Society Hears

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER
Universal Service Society 20000
New York, March 26.—Blessed with an unquestioned social position and the income from millions with which to maintain their present place in Mayfair, the Valentines Evert Macys have been the envy of many less importantly placed and less affluent "young set marrieds."

And yet, surrounded by luxury and with untold advantages, the young Macys have not found, according to the tea-table tabbies, marital happiness.

In fact, there are some who across bold enough to suggest that Valentine Evert Macy now has a score of divorce tucked away in her safe deposit box.

LIVING APART
These same gossips insist the legal document was handed to Mrs. Macy only a few weeks back down in sunny Florida.

While I can give the tale of the rumored divorce simply as a rumor, because both Mr. and Mrs. Macy have declined to confirm or deny the tale, it can be reported, without fear of contradiction, that Mrs. Macy now is dwelling alone in the Mayfair apartment here, while Valentine is making his home at his late father's apartment on Fifth ave.

Only a few years have elapsed since young Macy, a graduate of Harvard class of '06, and member of such exclusive organizations as the University, Midway and Tuxedo clubs, conferred his name on the comely Lydia Bodrero, daughter of Alessandro Bodrero.

MARRIAGE SURPRISE
The ceremony took place on November 7, 1928, out in Pasadena, Cal., and came as something of a surprise to the metropolitan social world.

When Valentine's father, V. Evert Macy, Sr., one of the late Josiah Macy, Jr., one of the early figures in the formation of the Standard Oil Co., died last year he left an estate totaling more than $400,000 to Valentine and his brother, Noel, and sister, Edythe.

GANDHI WARNS HE MAY QUIT

Karschi, India, March 26 (AP)—The Exchange Telegraph agency says that Mahatma Gandhi, in an interview with the agency's representative, has threatened to withdraw temporarily from Indian politics should the National Congress reject the Delhi agreement which he negotiated.

It would be humiliating, he said, to ask Great Britain to mediate in a Hindu-Muslim quarrel. Gandhi deplored communal disharmony Tuesday and Wednesday in Calcutta where 80 persons were killed and 250 injured. He said such riots marred the peace between the Nationalists, gathering here for their annual meeting, and the Government.

The mandate Gandhi expects from the National Congress authorizing him to represent India at the London conference will be restricted in the sense that it will authorize him to negotiate only upon the basis of "complete self-government," he told the Associated Press today.

Miss DuPont, Hurt in Fall, Is Out Again
Wilmington, Del., March 26 (AP)—Miss Emily du Pont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor du Pont, Jr., who was injured in a fall from her horse, was discharged today from Delaware Hospital today. An X-ray determined she had not suffered a fracture of the collar bone, as was at first believed.

The actress was alleged to have tried to bring in three silk dresses from Paris on March 8 without paying duty.

The sun has been giving light and heat for millions of years. Science claims that the sun does not "burn out" because of the tremendous explosions of atoms which renew its youth. Read about this in the American Weekly section of the next Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Sophie Tucker Pays $200 Smuggling Fine
London, March 26 (INS)—Sophie Tucker, American vaudeville star, was fined $200 in a police court here today on charges of attempted smuggling.

The actress was alleged to have tried to bring in three silk dresses from Paris on March 8 without paying duty.

DR. DEAN'S 'SPY MURDER' PUZZLE

A Reporter's Story of Baffling New Hampshire War Era Crime

By BERT FORD
(Who Worked on the Case as a Reporter)

The opening installment yesterday told of the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean, scholar and gentleman farmer, at his mountain estate in East Jaffrey, N. H., at midnight, August 1, 1916. The body, wrapped in a horse blanket and burlap and bound with rope, was found at the bottom of a well next day. The crime was attributed to spy activities.

Early next day we returned the letter file with its contents to the office of County Solicitor Pickard in Keene. Mr. Pickard was out of town so we gave the file to his secretary with our thanks. Then we hastened to East Jaffrey, to hunt up the selectmen whose names and protests figured in the official records which we had read and made notes from until 3 a. m.

Our first night's work had furnished us with a fund of information which shaped our course along definite lines. We found Selectman Edward C. Boynton in his barn at Jaffrey Centre. He telephoned his two colleagues on the board, William F. Coolidge and Peter E. Hogan, and we held a conference at the Town Hall.

The case was discussed from every possible angle. It was clear that the selectmen of East Jaffrey were disinterested in the manner in which the Dean case had been handled. They said the majority of voters were demanding that the case be reopened and that Dr. Dean's murder be avenged.

WEALTHY FRIENDS

They said Dr. Dean and his wife were respected by the residents of East Jaffrey and a few surrounding towns where they had many friends and influential friends in the fashionable summer colony. They said they were convinced after more than a year of personal investigation that Dr. Dean was slain because he knew "too much about enemy activities and that he died a martyr to his duty and his patriotism."

There was no doubting the sincerity and ire of the selectmen. They were as keen for action as if the murder had happened the day before our conference. Also they expressed the sentiment of the rank and file of voters and angles not included in the county collector's letter file.

That conference revealed an unusual condition of affairs. It showed that otherwise peaceful communities in that region were seething beneath the surface over the fact that the murderers of Dr. Dean had not been rounded up. That was news.

With all the talk about enemy activities, strange signals and reports that Dr. Dean had confided to neighbors that he made discoveries which he wanted to talk over with agents of the Department of Justice, it was clear that his murder had a weird and highly dramatic background.

PLAYMATE OF PRINCE

To determine the cause and effects of all this it was first necessary to learn more about Dr. Dean and his wife. Dr. Dean was in his 45th year when murdered. He was born in Wilmington, Del., Feb. 12, 1865. His father was the Rev. William Dean, a native of New York state and one of the first American missionaries sent to China.

Later the older Dean was transferred to Hiam, taking his wife and sons, William K. and Frederick, with him. Frederick was 23 months younger than William. During the World War, Frederick Dean was a lecturer for the Y. M. C. C. and lived at 126 West 104th st., New York.

William Dean was five years of age when his parents went to Hiam. They were playmates of the Prince of Hiam for years, and their father was on intimate terms with the King. Letters from the King and Prince of Hiam were found among Dr. Dean's effects on his New Hampshire farm.

When the Rev. William Dean returned to the United States, his brother, Dr. Henry W. Dean, of Rochester, took William into his home and educated him to follow his profession as a physician. Dr. Henry Dean had a large practice and was wealthy.

His daughter, Mary Dean, was one of the belles of Rochester. She was three years older than her first cousin, William Kendrick Dean, and fell in love with him while he was a member of her high school and a student at Rochester University and at Buffalo Medical College, and later still at the College of Physicians and Surgeons (Columbia), New York.

While a medical student William Kendrick Dean was appointed "physician in charge" of Rochester Hospital 187-78, an unusual honor, and he gained renown as a practitioner and diagnostician under his uncle and Dr. W. Moore. But despite his love for the profession and his promise for a brilliant career, William Dean abandoned medicine at the request of Mary Dean, who said she didn't want him sacrificing his time and health to her father's dream.

AUTO SURVIVES TRAIN CRASH

The experience of riding in an automobile when it was struck by a train and escaping unscathed was undergone by Dr. Chester L. Sanford, dentist, of 9 Goddard st., Belmont today.

Furthermore, Dr. Sanford was able to drive away in his car after the accident, which occurred in Rebooth at Watertown, although the machine was badly dented.

According to Dr. Sanford, a fireman at the Arsenal crossing in Rebooth at Watertown saw the car as it came onto the tracks as a milk train approached.

The locomotive struck the car of the automobile and pushed it along the tracks for a short distance. The train was moving slowly and the engineer was able to stop it.

Dr. Sanford climbed out of his car, found he was unharmed and drove away.

NOVEL SEASONING GIVES LAMB CHOPS SAVORY FLAVOR

Blend of Sugar, Salt, Vinegar and Oil is the Secret

This seasoning may be used for roast lamb or leg of lamb as well as the chops.

First make a mixture of: 1 teaspoon salt, 1 level teaspoon sugar, 2 teaspoons lemon juice or vinegar and 1 tablespoon of salad oil. Pour this well-blended mixture over the chops, shoulder or leg of lamb a few minutes before cooking. If you wish you can use the mixture for basting the meat as it cooks. You will be delighted with the way this seasoning heightens the flavor of the lamb.

The secret is an important ingredient in this mixture last described because it blends the salt, lemon juice and oil into a smooth, zesty coating.

A combination of sugar and salt is a good seasoning to use in vegetables as well as meat cookers. Some cooks use equal parts of sugar, salt or sugar, oil and salt. The mixture with sugar and salt is more delicious with sugar. The sugar is vital.

Frederick F. McDonald, 34, of Wright ave., Medford, charged with robbing the Milton Savings Bank last Saturday, pleaded not guilty in Quincy court today and was held in $25,000 bail for a hearing Tuesday.

The attorney, Leonard W. McClay, assistant clerk of Suffolk Superior Court, asked lower bail but Judge Albert Avery refused.

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. They tell you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry on in comfort.

Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it restores your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Bayer Aspirin when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an "assistant secretary," it will often "have the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Perfectly harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. One tablet of aspirin can afford to ignore the score and more of you explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to the rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Bayer Aspirin is ready with its quick relief and always works. Neuralgia, Neuritis. Any aching, aching pain.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross, of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much risk. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in the large bottle.

30-HOUR VIGIL REWARDED BY BIG 'SCOOP'

Boston American Star First to Ferret Out Surrender Plan at Home of McGuirk

By GEORGE HAMBLEN
(Boston Evening American reporter, who kept a vigil on the house of Hathaway's uncle at 49 Chambers st. from early Wednesday morning until Hathaway's surrender.)

Hathaway's automobile found on Cambridge st. That was enough to start the Boston Evening American out on the trail of Elliott Hathaway, fugitive from justice, in Boston, which led finally to his surrender today.

Through certain connections, unknown to police, it was learned that the house on Chambers st., where lives Patrick J. McGuirk and Atty. Joseph Jacob, was the place to watch with unflinching vigilance. Inquiries made to the house indicated that McGuirk and his wife knew nothing of Hathaway's whereabouts, but the other angle was different.

WATCHED LIKE LYNX
Jacob first tried to connect the connection again came to my door. It might take a day, two days or a month, but either the two people in the house would crack or I would.

Midnight last night, and still nothing came through officially. I knew that the McGuirks had left the house early Wednesday evening, supposedly for Fall River. Again the connections.

Police, making Beacon Hill look at armed camp, had the other reporters running around chasing down clues, but there was one spot on Chambers that was not left unwatched.

PHONE CALL TRACED
Finally, the tip that a telephone call had been made by someone, probably Hathaway, from the house. A little checking up, and the call was traced to Jacob's apartment, the front of which is used as an office.

Then came the break—two men, one of them Attorney Samuel Jacob, brother and partner of Joseph Jacob, took the latter's car out of the garage on Chardon st. and departed for points unknown. More telephoning on my part, and the connections came through.

A flash call to the office of the American, and the wheels were set revolving. Our men in Fall River were sent to the home of Rep. Louis E. Hathaway.

BIG TRAP ACROSS
That Max Jacobs, another brother, drove up to Jacob's law office at 28 Pemberton st. this morning, but both Max and Joseph declined issuance of any knowledge of Hathaway. But in the meantime American reporters had obtained from Hathaway's parents their verification of the plan to surrender.

The vigil of over 30 hours was broken by the arrival of the American, with the news that he was in the hands of the law.

Fire Commissioner Commends Three
Walter W. Mitchell, of engine 15 and James J. Donovan, aid to Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin, were commended today in equal orders issued by the commissioner and Chief Henry A. Fox.

Darrow Blames 'Crime Crusade' For Rebellions in Our Prisons

"Terrible Reactionary Laws" Are Held to Bar Fair Trials

By CLARENCE DARROW
Noted Attorney and Crusader Against Injustice

The rebellion in the Illinois Penitentiary is only one of many revolutions that are born of a feeling that is rife in every prison in the United States today.

Many other revolutions are no doubt smoldering and may break forth at any time. Some of the uprisings, like the burning of the Ohio Penitentiary, have brought dire disaster.

The cause of this is plain to every one who thinks. It is due entirely to the terrible reactionary laws that have been passed in recent years in America, and to the wild, unscientific and cruel crusade against crime.

These things have made a fair trial absolutely impossible. The cruel punishments that are meted out by judges in obedience to the manufactured hatred of the populace, and the barbarity of the laws as a result, are bearing their natural fruit.

Parole Boards in Fear
This feeling has been intensified by the fact that all the Parole Boards in the country have been paralyzed by fear and no longer function, except to draw salaries. The Governors of the various States, most of them in line for political promotion, no longer use the power of parole and pardon, no mat-

DEATH REVEALS RICH WIDOW
Friends of the late Godfrey M. Hyman, millionaire mining expert of Boston and New York, learned today for the first time that he was married.

This information relative to the Harvard graduate and mining expert was revealed with the filing of a report by the state transfer tax department in New York City announcing that he left an annuity of $20,000 to his widow, Mrs. Mary Hyman, of Boston.

Mrs. Henry M. Hyman of 1870 Beacon st., Brookline, a sister-in-law of the dead, had nearly cost him an annuity of $20,000. She said in a Boston Evening American reporter.

"We didn't know Godfrey Hyman was married until after he had died. My husband, Henry, who was his brother, was collapsed, when he learned that his brother had been married. He carried the secret of his marriage with him to the grave."

There was a lady at the funeral who cried very much. It was understood that she was Mrs. New York City.

ter how meritorious the case may be.

The wholesale manufacture of new crimes by State Legislatures and the national Congress has resulted in the crowding of prisons and the torturing of victims.

One who is sentenced to prison today understands that no Parole Board dares act and no Governor will ever restore him to liberty.

He sees above the penitentiary gates the words that Dante inscribed over the entrance to hell:

All Hope Abandon, Ye Who Enter Here.

Cruel Treatment of Prisoners Is Charged by Noted Lawyer guards are set aside for the purpose of putting in prison those whom the public have been taught to hate—and who often have committed no crime.

Some judges openly court public approval by defying the law and the Constitution of the land, and thus violate the safeguards of liberty so that they may get political promotion.

All of this is known by the inmates of Joliet and other penal institutions. These inmates believe that they have one chance, and only this, but one chance in a million.

Desperation Bred

Of course, they take that chance and seek escape by rebellion and violence. Joliet is the latest and most horrible example of this.

It matters not who the man may be: If he is deprived of hope he is desperate of consequences. All men live by hope, and by hope alone. And all hope is denied to the prison inmates.

Until men recognize that crime, like everything else, has its cause, and we undertake to cure the causes—until

AMBASSADOR DAWES SENATOR MORROW
Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, with Senator Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey, pictured at Waterloo station, in London, on the latter's arrival. Senator Morrow was the U. S. delegate to the new naval conference during his last London visit.

There's no more scrubbing until next Monday, how is it you're through so early, Dora?

My wash days are easy now. I never scrub clothes any more.

What do you mean? How can you get them white if you don't scrub them?

Rinsol soaks clothes the whitest white you ever saw—safest!

MR. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

Harry Kelley, one of the greatest conditioners of athletes in this country, dropped into this office to chat with Mr. Boston. Harry at various times has trained Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney, Honeyboy Flanagan, Sammy Fuller, Jack Malone, Dick Daniels and other first-class ring warriors.

"I want to say a few words about 'Cos O'Kelley,'" opened Harry.

"It's a case of a Kelley beating a O'Kelley," chimed Mr. Boston. "How long ago did your editors drop the O from in front of your last lead?"

"I never answered Harry," said now Mr. Boston. "I'm interested in getting a few credits for O'Kelley, who is under my management. You know I paid Tom O'Rourke a grand for 'Cos' contract. And a grand is a lot of dough for any fighter."

"In his last Boston start, O'Kelley won a decision over Al Friedman, which isn't any feat to be laughed off easily. Next Tuesday night he'll try to get a four right hands on King Levinsky's chin."

"I saw Levinsky knock Jack Kingston out the picture and I don't think he's any better at saving his right hand. He's liable to knock out anybody whom he can clip on the chin."

"I don't believe any heavy-weight has an iron jaw. Dempsey used to think he was tough. Then along came Gene Tunney, and almost tipped him in the second round of their battle at Jersey City. Firpo knocked old Tiger through the ropes with a right to the whiplash in the first session of their bout."

"To tell you to keep his chin tucked in on his chest and Levinsky then won't be able to find his right hand."

"Can't leave plenty of heavy punch around, and maybe he'll land one Kingfish in the canvas. You may be sure that an O'Kelley will never permit a Levinsky to land him a shellacking."

Fuller at Peak of His Fighting Wave

"I have got much satisfaction out of the way Sammy Fuller has smashed his way to the front of the lightweight division. Sammy is punching like a middleweight, while he takes a wallop well."

"In the Cassenier bout, he was at the peak of his form. When clipped him with a right hand round the jaw in the sixth round which would have knocked anybody but Fuller. However, he stood steady and went on to win."

"I liked the way Jack Zernow looked against Abella at the last bout. Jack has hit his old stride."

Count Zarnoff Will Do His Stuff at the Arena

Paul Bowser called Mr. Boston on the telephone.

"You will be interested to know that I have signed Count Zarnoff to fight with Boris Demostoff of Russia in the semi-final of the George-Lane bout at the arena on next Thursday night."

"Zarnoff is a marvelous scrapper as well as a man with a good crowd appeal."

"This Demostoff is a rugged fellow and will give the count plenty to worry about."

"George will cut off his barnstorming this week and get into serious training for his meeting with Lottus. Ed wants to retain his title and knows he will have to be at his best to defeat Lottus."

Here's Chance for Amateur Heavyweights

"I noticed," said Mr. Boston, "there is a heavyweight class at the Amateur American N.Y.C. tournament at the arena on Saturday night. My boys say right fit fellows have already sent in their entries, but that there is room for more."

"Amateur heavyweights always furnish me a real thrill. They don't know a great deal about the fine points of the boxing game, but they are always willing to stand up and punch it out with a rival."

"In addition to the bouts in the heavyweight class, there will also be matches at 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pounds. There'll be at least 40 bouts."

Did You Hear That

More than 300 candidates turned out for spring football practice at Notre Dame; and they don't neglect other sports. The great grid game is still the favorite of the grid game. For Notre Dame baseball, track and other spring sports teams have already started. Captain Ed Collins, cousin of the Princeton crew, has just started practice with his right; Colmore sustained a fractured arm in a wrestling match a month ago; Bill Pasche, Navy star in one of the toughest of all sports, water polo, tried a bit of tennis the other day; he had survived the submarine sport in good shape, and the court season sent him to the academy hospital for a week with a twisted ankle. Adam Walsh, Henry Friedman, Dr. Stevens and the other Yale coaches have made remarkable progress this spring in teaching their men the balanced line shift formations commonly known as the Rocking system.
